What Cheetah Students Say

"I learned how to rank the array of often conflicting goals that we all have in our busy and complex lives, and determine what was most important to me to change, as well as the likelihood that I'd be able to make that change. Ultimately, I felt that the course was as much about how to understand and work with human nature as it is about project methodology, and the methods worked. Take this course seriously – it's worth far more than 60 PDUs." George F. - PMP

"I've taken Cheetah Learning courses 3 times in the past prior to this course - I took my PMP exam the day after my Cheetah Boot Camp course ended, and passed with flying colors. I've maintained my PDUs via Cheetah Learnings courses since. I appreciate how your curricula approach the material of each course module from different perspectives. This makes your courses easy to commit to, and extremely useful in real world application." Lynn G. - PMP

"The section on personality types helped me understand my communication, project management, and negotiation strengths and weaknesses" - Juan H. - PMP

What You'll Learn

The Cheetah Virtual Leadership Program includes activities specifically designed to help you uncover your and your Virtual Team members' innate strengths and discover ways to best capitalize on those strengths to learn, achieve goals, and negotiate.

You will discover your unique personality. Our Learning Objectives are for you to:

- Align your purpose with how you are using your innate strengths to learn, get things done, and create agreements with others. You start out with learning how you can best learn, the faster you can change. Since change is our norm, being able to change fast gives you a distinct competitive advantage. You also learn how to help others learn faster as well so you can lead a whole team of Cheetahs.
- Pick the right opportunities to pursue based on your purpose and your strengths. Once you align your purpose with your natural talents to learn how to learn fast, you can pursue opportunities much faster. Make sure though they are the best ones for you to pursue.
- Achieve your goals in the way that best leverages yours and others natural talents. Considering only 25% of the population is working in their areas of strength, this is no small accomplishment and also delivers tremendous rewards.
- Develop influence strategies that work to get and keep you and others on your virtual team in a state of focused peak performance (just like experienced taking the Cheetah Exam Prep program).
- Create agreements with others that leverage yours and their unique strengths to create more value than either of you could create solo.
- Engage with people in a way that brings out their best performance.
- Lead your virtual project teams in a way so you quickly complete what you start as projects that take too long risk never being finished.

You will work one-on-one with your Cheetah Virtual Leadership Coach for up to twelve weeks to fine tune your Leadership skills to create a life and career where you fully leverage your strengths and develop the ability to pinpoint the strengths in others to achieve your goals at least 5x faster.

Beyond personal development, the Cheetah Virtual Leadership Program is effective in developing accomplished Virtual Project Teams. While one person can help an entire team's performance, it helps when each team member knows the best way to use their respective innate strengths to learn, collaborate, negotiate and ultimately complete projects effortlessly.
